THE VXSXONS

THE VXSXONS se prononce [ze visions] Avec la collection « The Vxsxons » Image Republic vous invite à ce voyage entre hier et demain dans un monde nouveau où le facteur « X » du temps est le seul maître. Quelque part entre le passé et le futur « les visions » dessinent les contours d'une nouvelle ère du design, de l'architecture, d'un nouvel art de vivre. Du rêve à la réalité, de la nostalgie et un goût certain pour les belles choses. Ainsi, suivant la citation du poète Keats « Ce qui est beau est une joie pour toujours ». Vous êtes sur le point d'embarquer vers ce territoire qui n'a peut-être jamais existé.

THE VXSXONS is pronounced [ze visions] Image Republic invites you on a journey between yesterday and tomorrow in a new world where the "X" factor of time is the only master. Somewhere between the past and the future, "visions" sketch out the contours of a new era in design, architecture and a new art of living. From dream to reality, with some nostalgia and a definite taste for beautiful things. In the words of the poet Keats, "a thing of beauty is a joy forever". You are about to embark on a journey to a land that may never have existed.

PAUL THURLBY

Paul est un illustrateur qui vit sur la côte sud de l'Angleterre, à Brighton. Son travail est audacieux, percutant et coloré, soutenu par une touche humaine expressive et des idées fortes. Sa grande percée a eu lieu en 2011 lorsque son projet personnel « Alphabet » a été publié par Templar. Celui-ci a ensuite remporté le prix Opera Prima des Bologna Ragazzi en 2013. Son dessin va droit au but, avec une énergie immédiate et une évidence graphique rare. Il y a chez lui un véritable sens de l'affiche — des compositions nettes, une palette vibrante, un univers fort et reconnaissable. Ses rayures en mouvement, ses harmonies chromatiques pleines de vitalité composent un monde à la fois joyeux et sophistiqué. On aime la façon dont il célèbre Paris — ses quartiers, son atmosphère — avec fraîcheur, style et une élégance lumineuse.

His major breakthrough came in 2011 when his personal project Alphabet was published by Templar. It later won the Opera Prima award at the Bologna Ragazzi Awards in 2013. His drawing style is direct and impactful, with an immediate energy and a rare graphic clarity. He has a true sense of poster design—clean compositions, a vibrant palette, and a strong, recognizable visual language. His dynamic stripes and lively chromatic harmonies create a world that is both joyful and sophisticated. We particularly appreciate the way he celebrates Paris — its neighborhoods and atmosphere — with freshness, style, and a luminous elegance.
